Four Red Lights For Four Corners

The very near future will find four new red lights at the corner of Bridge and Front streets, one at each corner. At the same time three red lights will be installed at Victoria and Front streets. Special flashing beacons have been secured for the corner at Pinnacle and Bridge, Victoria and Pinnacle streets. These lights will be installed shortly. Credit is due for this much-needed improvement to Alderman Harry Rollins, chairman of light, and Mr. O. H. Scott, manager of the Belleville Public Utilities Commission.

Instrumental in this development was Alderman Jennings, who has been advocating this improvement for some time.

PARKING LOTS GROWING IN POPULARITY

If the parking lots at the rear of the Front street stores, under the supervision of Ald. Jennings, continue to meet with the splendid co-operation in matters of tearing down old buildings and levelling operations, Belleville will soon have built its own esplanade, or raceway reaching from Victoria to the lower bridge. On September 14th in the next issue of the "Beacon" an interesting announcement will be made concerning this splendid work.

CHEESE PRICES

On Belleville Cheese Board last week there were boarded 2,588 boxes white and 165 colored. All sold at 10% cents.

Danzig - - The Danger Spot

The eyes of the whole world are focussed anxiously on the Free City of Danzig. Everybody wonders how and when Hitler will attempt to swallow this Baltic tidbit which has been preparing itself for his insatiable appetite ever since the disgraceful day on which the wolfed Czechoslovakia. There are signs that Der Fuehrer is not altogether recovered from the indigestion occasioned by his swallowing of the Czechs and Austrians — but gluttons do not wait on digestion and Hitler may attempt this latest bite at any moment.

If Poland yields to Hitler's demands then we shall see the end of Poland. She will disappear as a nation and as a political entity, just as surely and completely as Czechoslovakia, Austria, Albania and Ethiopia have disappeared. Without Danzig, Poland would be smothered.

At first Hitler said that all he wanted was the City of Danzig and a corridor twenty-five miles wide through the East Prussia. Now he demands not only Danzig but the whole Polish Corridor and many additional concessions.

It is reliably reported that German troops are being massed on the Polish frontier, and that, within recent weeks, many thousands of German soldiers have been "filtered" into Danzig under various disguises. The German press is full of inspired reports

Picton Ghost Hitch Hikes To Belleville

Returning from the scheduled Picton ghost walk rather disappointed Mr. _____ (Name withheld) suddenly froze at the wheel when he saw a grinning face staring at him in his rear view mirror. There in his own back seat was the Picton ghost. He dared not look back but with eyes straight ahead he sped on to Belleville and safety. He felt the ghost's cold breath on the back of his neck. Faster and faster he went. He felt the ghost lift his hat off his head and throw it out the window but there was no time to stop. On he went with hair on end, accelerator to the floor, around curves, over hills, until finally he thundered across the bay bridge. Soon, soon he would be safe. When all of a sudden the ghost tapped him on the shoulder and said, "Don't be alarmed, stranger, I won't haunt you. I just wanted to give those folks the slip back there and get home to Belleville. I went to Picton for a vacation but folks over there are so nervous they won't give a self respecting ghost any rest. Anyhow I've got work to do and it was time I was getting back. Over in Belleville I can haunt in peace. Things like stopping the town clock from ringing, stealing the big dog in front of Weaver's, and gumming up the works in the red light hardly even make the front page. My next big stunt, if you can keep a secret, is to steal all the waste containers up and down Front street. I'll bet the people won't even miss them. I wouldn't have ridden in one of these dangerous contraptions except that I was so darned anxious to get back. If you'll just stop at the dead letter office I'll see if me or me buddies got any mail. So long."

"Phoebe, has your master returned?" "No, mum; that was only the dog you heard growling just now."

Special Markers For R.M. Carriers

Automobiles of rural mail carriers will in future carry metal markers with a Royal Crown and the words "Rural Mail" on them. Postmaster General McLarty has announced at Ottawa. The change was made at the request of the carriers.

Aerial Warfare May Leave Terrible Legacy of Hatred

If a general war breaks out, aerial warfare may leave a legacy of hatred no war has left before, according to Earl Baldwin.

The former British prime minister, who arrived in New York this week to address a session of the World Congress for Education in Democracy, told interviewers that peace or war in Europe depends on one man—Hitler.

"Hitler has a brilliant mind, but it is abnormal," the former prime minister declared.

The 72-year-old statesman said the British hate war and think it a "ridiculous" method of settling disputes.

"But the realization of what totalitarianism stands for has caused hardening in the minds of our people," he added.

Black Bears In Bancroft Area

Black bears have become more numerous and troublesome in Bancroft district and reports of sheep killing by the animals have become more frequent. Gideon Jessup, resident near the village, discovered three of his sheep badly mangled and with carcasses partially eaten. Bears and not wolves are believed responsible for the loss.

"Miss S----- is a nice girl, but rather loquacious."
"Yes; and besides that, she talks too much."

Going To The Fair

You may have seen the New York Fair, And San Francisco, too. But yet you haven't seen the half Of what's in store for you. For though the Belleville fair may be A little less gigantic, Think of the money it would cost To go to the Atlantic; And if the fireworks at night Seem not quite so terrific, It's cheaper to drive fifty miles, Than go to the Pacific. For after all it matters not In manner of creation, If we should leave a little more To one's imagination; And though there is no periscope To cleave the upper air, No matter whether rain or shine We're going to the fair.

A Blackout For Belleville

It's time Belleville had a blackout. It seems everybody else is doing it and with the R.C.A.F. flying over Belleville nightly such an event could be made very realistic as well as instructive. There are some experts that think that the mere size of Belleville would be sufficient blackout to any enemy planes cruising in the sub stratosphere. On the other hand those naxis people might be just mean enough to see a pin point of light, meaning Belleville, and drop a bomb on it to put it out.

We are living in perilous times and we can not be too careful or cautious. Belleville should have regular blackout nights and even if the enemy didn't come just think how much lower the light bill would be at the end of the month.

'DOZE, NEVER CLOSE'

Orillia, Ont.—An enterprising restaurant here has an obliging sign out in front, informing prospective customers that "we doze, but never close."

Five Factories In Bata Plan

The hope to have five large factories in operation within the next ten years on the Canadian site of the company at Frankford, Ont., was voiced by Mr. Jan Bata, head of the famous Czechoslovakian shoe manufacturing firm, who arrived in Frankford the other day, where he will inspect present plans for the model community village and operating plants that will spring up in the near future.

"While it is not yet known just how large the Canadian factory will be, we are starting to build in the near future and hope to have five large operating plants constructed in the next 10 years," he added.

Farmer Seeks Thief With Penchant For Milk

Walter Fowlds of Hastings is looking for a thief with a penchant for fresh milk. He purchased a Jersey cow and couldn't understand why it was giving so little milk. Careful investigation revealed, however, the cow was giving its usual quota—but somebody else was getting it.

Canada Exports $69,209 in Arms

Ottawa. — Value of Canada's July exports of arms, ammunitions and implements or munitions of war totalled $69,209, the National Revenue Department reported. These were shipped under 18 permits issued by the Department.

Principal shipments were high explosives, totalling $33,600, exported to the United Kingdom and aircraft parts valued at $30,315, which went to Mexico and the United Kingdom.

Veterans Are Ready For Any Emergencies

Canada's anti-sabotage campaign went into effect in Trenton this week when Inspector E. D. L. Hammond of the Criminal Investigation Department enlisted 25 Trenton returned men to guard this district's hydro stations and important industries in the event of any emergency.

Porker Disappears From Car Trunk

"This little pig went to market—"
But he didn't come home like the little pig in the nursery rhyme.

On Saturday, C. L. Redner, Rossmore, brought a small pig to Belleville market, but was unable to dispose of his porker on the open market. Mr. Redner had merely dropped the porker in the rear trunk of the car, opening the lid for sale inspection.

Leaving his car parked on the market square and the little pig safely lodged in the car trunk, Mr. Redner proceeded with his shopping in the city. Later, when he returned to the car, however, the little porker was among the missing.

The matter was promptly reported to the police but no signs of the wayward pig or stories of "the big bad wolf" having been seen followed.

MALE SWIMMERS MUST WEAR MORE THAN BATHS

Boymanville, Ont.—Police here are under orders to arrest male swimmers who wear only shorts while swimming. Civic authorities have ruled all bathing suits must have upper portions as well as shorts.

School Days And The 'Bone' of Content

Soon we go to school again. To get our share of knowledge, And if we work and work and work, We'll work our way to college.

And if our folks cannot afford A higher education, We'll just have to work and work For our matriculation.

And though exams may come and go An dnow and then we miss them It's quite a simple matter to Just blame it on the system

For after all it matters not Within the realm of learning How many facts we master, but The deepness of our yearning.

And while we work and study hard And battle with declensions, The teachers try to keep intact Their salaries and pensions.

But who are we to worry much Of matters mercenary, As Mayor Bone himself points out The cost is secondary.

—School Boy

OH! DOCTOR!

By FREDERICK W. NOYES

Are you sore distressed? You are! Well, dear friends, here's help for you at last. Do you ever get the feeling that it is better to have plenty of money than none at all? Do you lose your appetite at the sight of a meal-table from which you've just arisen after performing thereat prodigious gastronomic feats? Do you prefer to be a witness of, rather than a performer of manual labor such as dish-washing, lawn-mowing, ash-sifting, etc., etc.? You do! Then, dear reader, be of good cheer. The Beacon's famous medical specialist, Dr. Lynn C. Doyle, of Relapse Centre, is ready to help you.

Many of you, no doubt, have already heard of this famous drugless healer. He conducts the celebrated Lynn C. Doyle Correspondence School of Health and Remote Control Hospital which is so conveniently located in this section of the Province.

Imagine if you can, a Correspondence Hospital and School of Health for out-patients only. The term "out-patients" takes on a new significance when used in connection with Dr. Doyle's institution. Not only will all patients be "out" — so will the Doctor be, if ever any enthusiastic patient gets well enough to attempt to visit the Doctor personally. Personal interviews are not necessary and the renowned practitioner will never be out of patience with his out-patients so long as they adhere to the rules laid down for their guidance.

All you need to do is to mail your questions to Dr. Lynn C. Doyle, in care of The Beacon, and the Doctor will do his best to restore you to your former health, wealth and happiness, if any. Naturally, The Beacon accepts no responsibility for the results of treatments undertaken through the advice and operation of this free-of-charge, painless, harmless, unique long-distance clinic.

Here are some of the questions already sent in—and the famous physician's suggested remedies. Perhaps he can solve your problems, too. Give him a chance to assist you. By the way, only yesterday a certain local magistrate informed us that he hoped to give the doctor a trial as soon as possible. Be sure and mail your questions.

Question—My eight-months-old baby is continually sucking his thumb. What can I do to correct this habit.—J.H.R.

Answer — Wash the rest of your baby's hand, then nobody will notice that he has been sucking his thumb.

Question — Through eating some wild berries, my wife's throat has become so affected she has lost her voice entirely and cannot even speak in a whisper. What would you advise?—Mr. D.F.P.

Answer—Dear D.F.P., would advise you to corner the market in those berries immediately. If you can do that your fortune is made.

Question—I am a retired coal merchant. My heart is very weak. Have been advised to try a warmer climate. Where would you recommend?—J.M. M.

Answer—The doctor is astonished to hear of a coal dealer with a weak heart, or with a heart, at all. Please send stamped self-addressed envelope (an asbestos envelope if possible) or call personally, and the doctor will be delighted to tell you of a warm place to which you may go.

Question—My wife has acquired a terrible habit of nagging and complains of an awful pain in her vocal muscles. Please advise me. Mr. S.S.W.

Answer—See reply to Mr. D.F.P. He may be able to help you.

Question—(1) My daughter, aged twenty, has a very noticeable flush on her face, particularly around her mouth and on her cheeks. (2) She shows a marked aversion to staying at home in the evenings, and (3) complains of an increasing stiffness in her knee-joints. What would you suggest?—Mrs. H.T.L.

Answer—(1) Hide her make-up outfit. (2) Let her bring her current heart-throb into her home. (3) Tell her to stop "rolling them" now that the weather is becoming rather cool.

Question—My wife and I are deaf mutes. Lately Mrs. M. has been very irritable. Night after night she keeps me awake by subjecting me to a terrible reprimanding, using our sign language, of course. What can I do to avoid these outbursts.—Mr. D.M.

Answer—Turn out the light.

Question—My husband complains of always feeling tired. He sleeps well and eats well, but when confronted with work he commences to tremble. What would you suggest?—Mrs. A.H.P.

Answer—Your husband should have a position entailing a minimum of mental and physical exertion. Tell him to apply for a government job.

Question—Dear Doctor Doyle, I am a young lady of eighteen. Please tell me how I can get my hands nice and white.—Miss H. T.

Answer—Dear Miss H. T. Try dipping your hands in your mother's dish-water for about one half-hour, three times daily.

Struck By Auto Indian Is Killed

William Loft, a resident of the Indian reserve near Deseronto, was killed Friday afternoon when struck by an auto driven by Alex Hazlett, of Ypsilanti, Mich.

Lott was crossing Highway No. 2, about two miles west of Belleville through heavy traffic. Witnesses said he stopped to allow an eastbound car to pass, but failed to notice Hazlett's westbound car and walked directly in front of it.

FRANCE

The following statistics are an indication of what another war would mean to France—and not only to France, but to any other unfortunate country which might find itself the scene of actual hostilities. The chief difference in the distribution of casualties in the next war is likely to be found in the great increase in the number of dead and wounded among civilian populations. Events in Spain and China proved that modern war is waged as much against unarmed men, women and children, as against armies in the field.

Here is a brief summary of what happened to France in the war of 1914-1918:

At the beginning of the war France had a population of 39½ million; at the end she had 36¼ million. In 1919 she had one million fatherless children; 12,000 of these children had lost both parents. She had 600,000 widows and 350,000 military cripples. 240,000 buildings were totally destroyed and 410,000 badly damaged.

Six thousand square miles of France, the equivalent, roughly, of a strip two miles wide stretching from Montreal to Vancouver, became for all practical purposes a wilderness. This area had housed about two million people. The value of buildings destroyed was in 1919 placed at four billion dollars. The value of furniture, supplies, etc., in these buildings was estimated at two billion dollars. The total amount of damage inflicted on the invaded regions, including the damages to agriculture, mines, factories, machinery, railways, bridges, etc., was estimated at twenty-four billion dollars.

It was a devastation not simply of buildings and other material things, but a devastation of life, of thought, of feeling, of affection, of religion, of brotherhood, of hope and of courage.

Owing to conditions brought on by the war, out of every seven babies born in France during the great struggle, one died. 250,000 French prisoners died in German prison camps, many of them from ill-treatment and lack of food and medical care.

During the first fourteen months of the war the ordinary soldier of France received one cent a day. From October, 1915, to near the close of the war he received five cents a day.

It is little to be wondered at that the French loathe war. They know better than any other European people just what war means, and what it costs. Still, there is not in this whole world a people more courageous and more willing to fight for liberty, freedom and justice than the French.

King's Youngest Brother Will Race in Australia

The Duke of Kent, who, like his brother, King George, and other members of the Royal family, is a great lover of horse racing, intends to participate as an owner in Australian racing when he takes up his post of Governor-General of the Commonwealth. He, his Duchess and their two children sail in October.

Already the pick of his stable are being shipped there. Among them is the 3-year-old Dhoni, which was unbeaten on the English tracks last year when he belonged to the Aga Khan.

This year, however, Dhoni so far has been a great disappointment to his followers. He started joint favorite for the Two Thousand Guineas, but in his four races, which included the Derby, he failed to be one of the first three.

Visitor at Hospital Was Too Laconic

During the week-end someone gave me this story from Leeds Infirmary, says a Yorkshire Post columnist, and I can only hope that it is as true as he assured me it was. It appears that one of those tersely-spoken gentry whom we breed in Yorkshire presented himself at the Out Patients' Department and announced baldly, "Ah've got the gravel."

He was told to undress and wait for the doctor; and this, with some reluctance, he did. In due course, the doctor came around. "Ah've got the gravel," said the patient. The doctor examined him all over, but said that he could find no sign of the disease.

"Nay, but Ah've got t' gravel," the patient repeated stubbornly, and the doctor made another and still more careful examination. "It seems to me that there is nothing at all the matter with you," he said severely.

"Ah know that," cried the honest

Yorkshireman, exasperated by so much gravel for t' drive—two-an'-alf tons red tape. "Ah tell thee Ah've got t' of it in me cart outside."

Senator F. O'Connor, Philanthropist, Dies

Senator Frank P. O'Connor, philanthropist, sportsman, and founder of two far-flung business organizations in Canada and the United States, died Monday morning at his Maryvale Farm, Dawes Road, Toronto, in his fifty-fifth year.

In ill health for some time, he passed away with his immediate family at his bedside: his son, William J., his daughter, Mrs. F. D. Neale, and his brother, Frederick.

Senator O'Connor was one of the best known laymen of the Roman Catholic Church in Canada, and his contributions to the church, schools and charitable organizations, amounting to millions, made him one of Canada's greatest philanthropists.

Senator O'Connor was founder and, until a short time ago, president of the Laura Secord Candy Company of Canada and the Fanny Farmer Candy Shops in the United States. Poor health during the past year caused him to dispose of a large interest in the candy business.

Senator O'Connor was born in Deseronto in 1885, the son of Patrick O'Connor and Ellen McKeown. His father died when he was a boy and the family moved to Peterborough.

Police Give Warning Regarding "Rackets"

Ontario Provincial Police have sent out notices regarding two "rackets" which are being perpetrated in Ontario.

In one case, a man is sought on a charge of false pretences. This man and his associates go about obtaining money from people for a musical course on the guitar but the course is never completed because they leave the vicinity as soon as they obtain the money. The men are believed to be working the same racket in Belleville district. The leader is described as 50 years of age, 5 ft. 6 inches in height, weight 160 lbs., gray hair, driving Auburn car.

The other racket is one of passing Mexican peso notes instead of $5 bills. The leader's modus operandi is when he arrives in a town or city, he usually employs one or two young men and they assist him in passing these notes. He is described as 35 years of age, height 5 ft. 9 inches, slim build, dark complexion, wearing glasses. These Mexican notes closely resemble $5 bills.

If anyone should have information concerning these men, they should get in touch with local police.

No Date Set For Thanksgiving Day

Announcement by President Roosevelt of a plan to celebrate Thanksgiving Day in the United States a week earlier this year, drew attention to the fact that in Canada this year's date for the annual harvest time holiday has not yet been fixed. In recent years it has been customary in Canada to celebrate Thanksgiving Day on the second Monday in October, and no change is expected this year.

Slips From Bank While Fishing, Trenton Woman Was Drowned

Mrs. Alfred Baker, Trenton, R.R. No. 3, drowned in the Trent Canal, two miles north of Trenton, Thursday despite the efforts of a niece to rescue her. Mrs. Baker, accompanied by four girls, was fishing from the shore of the canal between Dams No. 5 and 6. Mrs. Baker, who had been sitting on the shore, decided to change her position. While getting up, she slipped and fell into the water, which was about eight feet deep at that point.

Elaine Baker, 14, a niece, jumped into the water in an effort to rescue her aunt. Dorothy Baker, Muriel Brown and Jean Wilson, the other three girls in the party ran for help. Elaine made several attempts to find Mrs. Baker, but was unsuccessful. Bob MacAulay and Cecil White, Trenton truck drivers, were stopped by the girls and both jumped into the canal.

They soon found the body.

L. Johnson, summoned from a nearby power house, applied artificial respiration. Dr. McMullen pronounced the woman dead after thirty minutes.

PROFESSIONS

When I was at Shrewsbury I endeavored to collect some statistics by getting all boys to fill in a form showing their father's profession and that which they intended themselves to pursue. One of the first to come in read as follows: "Father's profession—Deceased. Intended profession—Dying." I thought I was being mocked, till I discovered that the family were well known as dyers in Kidderminster.—The Dean of Durham (Dr. Allington) in "Things Ancient and Modern."

A KIPLING STORY

It once happened that the omnibus belonging to a certain hotel careened into Rudyard Kipling's garden, destroying one of his most beautiful trees. After the occurrence of the accident he naturally expected to receive some reparation from the proprietor of the hotel. But time passed by without the slightest sign of recognition of the affair on the latter's part. The poet wrote him a letter, but received no answer. He wrote a second, and a third, but to no avail. By this time Kipling decided to adopt more decisive measures. He would call on the man in person. Respectfully, even reverently, the hotelman listened to his distinguished visitor's reproaches, and finally vouchsafed the following excuse for his tardiness.

"You see, Mr. Kipling," he explained, "One of the guests at my hotel gave me twenty-five dollars for your first letter, and I sold the other two for ten dollars apiece. . . . If only you had written me two more letters, I should have found it easy to pay the costs of the damages."

The best way to make money out of chickens is to start a hat shop.

"He called me a barefaced liar!" "Apparently he didn't notice your moustache."

Presents Principal Reasons For The Low Price Of Cheese

In a statement issued by S. L. Joss of Belleville, secretary of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association, to representatives of Ontario cheese factories, the principal reasons for the wide variations in cheese board prices this season and the low prices for cheese are given as follows:

Consumption of cheese in the United Kingdom this spring was below normal, due to unusually cold weather. Stocks of cheese in Canada, the United States and the United Kingdom are well above a year ago.

The unfavorable situation in sterling exchange this year, as compared with last, is accountable for 3-4 cents per pound on cheese.

"And there is the international situation," adds Mr. Joss. "This point may need some explanation. Employment figures are comparatively high in the United Kingdom, thousands of men are undergoing military training, due to the recent conscription bill, and wages are relatively high. Ordinarily these factors would promote higher prices, but England today has an abundant supply of foodstuffs, and due to Government control, which would most decidedly operate in the event of war, speculation has been reduced to the minimum, and even normal speculation is actually interfered with. We have all heard, of course, of the extreme nationalism of European countries and its effect upon world trade. That subject is much too broad to be dealt with here, and we are merely trying to explain conditions in the cheese trade as they exist this year as compared with last."

Mr. Joss states that to find an entirely satisfactory explanation for conditions is difficult.

THE REST CURE

Joe White loved his wife and his kiddies,

But had scant affection for work. He harvested yen by pushing a pen, And, one day when he felt the old irk, He yawned till his jaws started aching;

He sighed like a soul going west; Till his boss said, "Joe, it's home you should go—

You're tired—you deserve a day's rest."

So Joe parked his pen and unloaded Devout words of thanks to his boss.

Thought Joe, "This is fine! Now a day's rest for mine,

Free from figures of profits and loss!"

Joe's heart was as light as a feather As homeward he whistled his way.

"Gee, this is the life!" said Joe to his wife—

Her response was a lusty "Hooray!"

Then Joe's wife led Joe out to their garden;

She brought him a rake and a spade;

She called him "Old Dear," and said "Joe, you work here

Till the kiddies are dressed, and beds made—

And -- there's last Winter's ashes down cellar,

That I wish you'd clean up, too, and -- say --

This warm weather means we should have up our screens --

My, it's great that you're off for the day!"

So Joe groomed the garden, then sifted

The remnants of last Winter's coal. He screened windows and doors and performed other chores,

That caused cusswords he couldn't control.

His hands gathered cuts, corns and blisters;

He ached in the small of his back; His knees were contused; his elbows were bruised;

His shins, too, became greenish-black.

Poor Joe went back gladly, next morning,

And fondled his books and his pen. He was aching and sore and inwardly swore That he'd never forsake them again.

When his boss saw him working he marvelled,

At Joe's new contentment and zest --

That was long years ago, and to this day friend Joe

Hasn't wanted another "day's rest."

—Frederick W. Noyes

PAPER TAKES WING BRINGS ACTION APLENTY

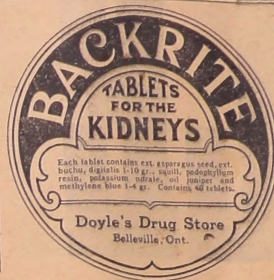

Boston.—A piece of paper, floating idly on the breeze, whisked into the kitchen window of Mrs. Antonetti Lanze's apartment in the north end and landed on a hot cook stove. The paper blazed up.

Mrs. Lanze, in another room, saw the flame and ran screaming into the street. A passer-by turned in a fire alarm. Five engine companies, two ladder companies, fireboat 31, rescue company 3, a district chief, a deputy chief and a score of police rushed to the scene. There was no damage.

LIGHT BULB 50 YEARS OLD STILL BURNS

An electric light bulb, which is fifty years old at least, was unearthed at the city hall in Kingston. On examination it was found to be in good condition and will be used in one of the civic offices.

The bulb, which is of a very old-fashioned type, was found by Rupert Davis, fireman at Kingston city hall, while he was engaged doing some work under a flooring.

Parasites From Laboratory Sent To Palestine By Air

Included in First Air Express Flight From Canada to England Recently

When the Imperial Airways' flying boat Cabot took off from Montreal on its first air express flight from Canada to Great Britain, on Thursday, its cargo included a package of Canadian-bred insects destined for Palestine. The odd parcel was received at Belleville by the Canadian National Express agent from the Dominion Entomological Laboratory. It was the first package to be booked for air express aboard the Cabot.

Weighing only eleven ounces, the parcel contained 300 living parasites, which are to be shipped to the Citrus House, Tel-Aviv, Palestine. It was expressed from Belleville, flown to England, then flown to Haifa, Palestine. From there, the parcel will be transported to Tel-Aviv by motor car.

The whole trip will take only four days.

The parasites in all stages of life will be used in Palestine for breeding purposes. Later, the parasites will be used in a war on the mealy bug, that is causing considerable damage to all citrus fruit in that country. G. Wisheart, entomologist, stated the parasites were first imported from South America. Experiments carried on at Belleville have proved successful against the mealy bug in this country, and, it is thought, that it will be an aid in Palestine.

For years the Dominion entomological branches of the Department of Agriculture have used airways throughout this continent. The transportation of parasites must be done quickly or a considerable number of them will die in transit. With the inauguration of the trans-atlantic service, the parasites will be shipped throughout the world in the fight against insect pests.

SPARROW STARTS MILL BY THROWING SWITCH

Irwin, Ia.,—Fred Ruhs, grain elevator operator, was amazed when he came to work and found the elevator locked up but the machinery within running full blast.

The seared body of a sparrow provided the explanation. Ruhs figured that the bird lighted on the handle of a switch, threw it with its weight, then was electrocuted when it fell against the electrical contacts.

"Algy's going to be married again." "I didn't even know he had been married." "He hasn't but he's often been going to."

"Bishop's Court" Offered For Sale

"Bishop's Court," See house at Kingston, where the bishop of the Diocese of Ontario resides is being offered for sale, it was learned today.

This is in accordance with the resolution passed at the last meeting of the Synod of the Diocese of Ontario and the investment committee of Synod is offering for sale the property.

The See house has been the residence of bishops of the Diocese of Ontario since 1917. Before that it was the residence of Dean Bidwell, dean of St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, at that time and later bishop of the Diocese of Ontario.

It was stated at the Synod office that no decision about the future residence of the bishop will be made until the See house has been sold.

WHY DOES A MAN GET DRUNK?

He may have met a long lost pal,
Or maybe he's just lost his gal.

He may just lack the strength to say
I can't put quite that much away.

He may not just have stopped to think,
How many more was "one more drink."

He may have found he wasn't able,
To drink his pal beneath the table.

But still a man feels mighty punk
The morning after he is drunk.

Royal Lincoln Will Be Shown

The car used most frequently by Their Majesties, King George and Queen Elizabeth, on their Canadian tour—the Lincoln V-12 supplied by the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited—will be publicly displayed for the first time at the Ford exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto.

Familiar to many thousands who saw Their Majesties motoring, the Royal Lincoln is a custom built convertible sedan, Royal maroon in color and equipped with many interesting features and accessories. It is upholstered in "poudre" blue broadcloth and is luxurious in every appointment.

In addition to the car, the display will also include enlargements of photographs showing Their Majesties using the Lincoln in sixteen different cities and towns across Canada.

FINE CARVING

Miniature ivory animals and other figures, so tiny that their hand-carved details are visible only under a powerful lens, are the product of a Bombay, India, craftsman who markets his creations to collectors all over the world. One of his accomplishments is packing from one to 125 carved elephants within a single hollowed-out seed no larger than an ordinary pea.—Popular Science Monthly.

about the Poles having imprisoned and otherwise mistreated poor innocent, harmless, law-abiding German nationals residing in Poland. The same program of propaganda, incitement, lies and border clashes which preceded the Munich betrayal is being repeated. And, too, Hitler is making the same promises to the Poles that he made to the Czechs and Austrians—and we all know what happened to them.

It should be remembered, though, that Poland right now is more Fascist than democratic; it is, in fact, a dictatorship nation. Poland is closer to the Germans, socially and politically, than she is to the Russians. There is in Poland a very powerful faction of political leaders who have long dallied with Germany; but they are obliged, because of the intense nationalism of the Polish common people, to work under cover. They dare not come out openly in favor of Hitler but they have been, and still are, undermining Poland's independence and resistance.

Berlin's spokesman, Dr. Carl Burckhardt, who is supposedly League of Nations High Commissioner for Danzig, has spared no effort to hoodwink the Poles into acceptance of Germany's various proposals. At a League Council meeting not so very long ago Burckhardt even succeeded in having his plan for solving the Danzig problem completely accepted by the Foreign Ministers of the Democratic Powers. However, the stiffened attitude of Britain and France and Poland herself has somewhat nullified Burckhardt's influence, but he is dangerously clever and will bear a lot of watching. There is no doubt as to which side his sympathies are on and the many recent personal chats he has had with German leaders have not helped to calm the fears of those who distrust him.

Britain and France are definitely pledged to go to Poland's help if she is attacked or her independence endangered directly or indirectly by Germany. Of course, there is always a lot of meaningless wordage in many of these pledges, and all too often the promised assistance has not been rendered. China, Ethiopia, Czecho-Slovakia and Loyalist Spain were promised assistance. Their fates are too recent, historically, for the necessity of further comment. No wonder that Russia is so long in falling into line with nations which have in the not so distant past found it convenient to repudiate some of their most solemn commitments.

Interesting indeed is the fact that Poland, along with Great Britain, France and Russia, are bound by the League Covenant which calls for economic and military sanctions against an aggressor nation. That being the case, it would appear that Poland and the three Great Powers are now "on the spot." Poland's fate will determine whether the world is to be plunged into war after war; or whether at long last Nazi-ism and aggression are to be definitely halted and the foundation laid for some sort of World League or World Court whose function it would be, not only to enforce international peace, but to correct as far as humanly possible the many long-standing disputes, abuses and tyrannies that lead to war. The much-ridiculed League of Nations was a step in the right direction, but without the honest support of its chief signatories it was doomed to failure from the first. The only clauses that really gave the League Covenant its teeth were the clauses re sanctions. The League's rapid collapse occurred immediately the predatory nations realized that the sanctions clauses could be safely flouted. Japan, Italy and Germany no doubt believe that they can continue their devilish aggressions indefinitely. The outcome of the Danzig-Poland problem will show the three aggressors which way the wind blows.—F. W. N.

Permanent Wave Won by Bald Man

"The almonds of life come to those who have no teeth," says an old adage, and A. E. Maundrell of Mount Forest has evidence to prove it.

At a draw held in conjunction with a recent carnival, Mr. Maundrell won a permanent wave. But the days when he might have appreciated it are gone, perhaps forever.

He is bald.

Doctor: You have only your healthy constitution to thank for having been able to overcome the disease comparatively easily.

Patient: Dear doctor, I should like to ask you to remember that when you send me the bill!

'Goodbye, Mr. Chips' Comes To Belle

Following his success in "The Citadel," Robert Donat again returns to the screen, this time as the lovable schoolmaster of "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," filmization of James Hilton's famous novel. The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, filmed in England, comes Saturday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, August 26th, 28th, 29th and 30th. Matinee daily.

With Donat comes a colorful new feminine lead in Greer Garson, beautiful English actress recently signed by the studio. Terry Kilburn, boy discovery of "Lord Jeff" and "A Christmas Carol," plays an important juvenile role, and Sam Wood, who filmed "Navy Blue and Gold," "Lord Jeff" and other hits, directed.

The story, with a romantic love theme, has a new angle in the glorification of the work and influence of the profession of teaching. Donat plays the title role, a British schoolmaster. His work, his romance, the tragedy of the death of his wife, his shaping of careers of future great men, are the dramatic elements.

Rescue of the heroine from a Tyrolean mountain peak, a great ball in Vienna, a smashing air raid over England during the World War, are among the dramatic highlights of the picture. Cricket and football in famous old English schools and intimate human interests touches dealing with the lives of youngsters in British schools are other elements in the haunting story.

One of the largest sets ever built in Europe, a reproduction in its entirety of a great school, was constructed at M-G-M's studio at Denham for the picture.
